

REQUEST FOR STATEMENTS OF INTEREST (RSOI) FOR A PROJECT TO BE INITIATED THROUGH THE COOPERATIVE ECOSYSTEM STUDIES UNITS (CESU) NETWORK

PROJECT TITLE: Special History Study- The Sandburgs' Views and Roles Related to African Americans and Civil Rights

INTRODUCTION: Responses to this Request for Statements of Interest will be used to identify potential investigators for a project to be funded by the National Park Service (NPS) and coordinated by Carl Sandburg Home National Historic Site (CARL). The project involves the development and production of a special history study that uses research and critical analysis to document Carl and Lillian Sandburg's views on and relationships with African Americans and the struggle for civil rights. These resources will enable CARL to develop interpretive and educational programs that expand understanding of the Sandburgs and connect visitors with African American history and culture.

This project requires a principal investigator(s) with a deep knowledge of American history and literature, with a focus on the African American experience and civil rights, as well as prior experience researching, writing, and producing government reports, especially as related to NPS interpretive histories, historic contexts, or theme studies.

ELIGIBILITY:

This opportunity is open to non-federal members of the CESU National Network. Information on the CESU National Network can be accessed at <https://www.cesu.org>.

BACKGROUND:

The purpose of a special history study is the collection, presentation, and evaluation of historical research pertaining to a specific event or theme that is related to the history that has occurred within the boundaries of a national park unit and/or its surrounding area(s).

The Carl Sandburg Home National Historic Site (CARL), established in 1968 in Flat Rock, North Carolina, commemorates the life of Carl Sandburg (1878-1967), the writer and Pulitzer Prize winner known as the "Poet of the People." Sandburg's important body of work includes writing on American race issues, including the 1919 Chicago "Race Riots. He also advocated against segregation of the US military and Red Cross blood donations and was involved in "Negro Day" at the 1933 World's Fair.

In 1965, Carl Sandburg was the first White person awarded the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) Silver Award for his lifelong commitment to social justice as "a major prophet of civil rights in our time."

While there is awareness of some of Sandburg's history related to race and civil rights, there has been little written on the topic, summarizing and analyzing this information. Also, there has been little investigation of Sandburg's wife, Lillian Steichen (1883-1977), to determine what can be known about her own views on race and civil rights.

The study will examine Sandburg's writings on race including poetry, newspaper articles, opinion pieces, and correspondence; the Sandburgs' relationships with African Americans; their relationships with Black and White civil rights activists; and the Sandburgs' political views (including Socialism), paying attention to how they evolved and influenced their civil rights views and participation in the movement.

However, this study seeks to not only understand the Sandburgs' views on race and civil rights but understand African American perspectives of the Sandburgs. To this aim, the study will also look at representations of the Sandburgs in African American publications including newspapers and Carl Sandburg's influence on African American writers. For instance, Harlem Renaissance writer, Langston Hughes, referred to Sandburg as his "guiding star."

The study will provide the NPS and the general public with information that will fill in crucial research gaps and will be invaluable for park interpretation and will be used to update park home tours, park waysides, and online exhibits.

BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF ANTICIPATED WORK:

The special history study will be a multi-chapter monograph, including all research, analysis, writing, photograph selection, and layout and design. The final study shall be print-quality PDF and must be Section 508 compliant (Section 508 | U.S. Department of the Interior \(doi.gov\)) in a manner suitable for publication and which is understandable to members of the public, NPS professional and management staff, as well as to a scholarly audience. This study will document the concepts, research procedures, and the logic behind findings that lead to the conclusions and recommendations. The study will cover all elements identified in the Scope of Work and any revisions made and approved through the outline, draft(s), and final report submissions. The project will culminate with a Transfer of Knowledge Session, a presentation of findings for associated communities, park staff, and for management use.

Deliverables shall also include, but not limited to:

1. Survey and inventory of sources and previous research related to the Sandburgs and race and civil rights within the Park's and other archival collections.
2. Inventory and critical analysis of Sandburg's writings that reference topics of race, African Americans, and civil rights.
3. Research into how Sandburg's upbringing in Galesburg, IL, a town with established connections to the Underground Railroad and early racial progressivism, may have influenced his views.
4. Research into Sandburg's service in the Spanish-American War (1898) and how this may have influenced his views on race and civil rights.
5. Research on the Sandburgs and the NAACP.
6. Research on the Sandburgs' participation in socialism, and the relationship of socialism to the civil rights struggle.

7. Research on the influence of African American cultural forms and expressions on Carl Sandburg's writing.
8. Research on Carl Sandburg in African American publications.
9. Research on Carl Sandburg's influence on African American writers.
